The 'Corral de Perorrubio' is located in a quiet and beautiful village of the province of Segovia. In an ideal environment for those who wish to get out from the urban life. It is located in the square, next to the church of San Pedro Advíncula, a true jewel of the Romanesque this 'casa rural' has been rebuilt respecting its original architecture. Some materials such as the stone and the wooden of its walls and beams have been recovered, what it provides a special touch of authenticity. This is an aspect of its decoration, full of original aspects that recall to past ages. It is plentiful of pieces of the XIX century, such as the chandelier of the stairs, made of crystal from the Granja de San Ildefonso, almost all the lamps are of Modernist style, there are tapestries of this century and up to a table of the XVIII century that belonged to the Royal Coliseum of Escorial. It has been achieved to create warm environments where the tranquillity and the privacy dominate.
